

Accessing Daily Information About Dane County Air Quality

In the absence of Clean Air Action Day alert email notifications, there are a number of ways you can access advance air quality forecasts, DNR air quality advisories, and air quality reports:

- 1) To receive daily emails about the day's current air quality and the next day's air quality forecast, subscribe to AIRNow at <http://www.enviroflash.info/signup.cfm>

At the AIRNow subscription site, you should select the Madison, WI location in order to receive air quality forecasts for Dane County via a daily email.

- 2) To receive email and/or text alerts regarding air quality advisories from the Wisconsin DNR, you can sign up at http://dnr.wi.gov/air/aq/health/status\_county.asp You must choose the county for which you want to receive air quality advisories.

Note: A DNR-issued air quality advisory means that the current air quality has exceeded the federal threshold for ozone or PM 2.5 and has reached "Unhealthy for Sensitive groups" or higher concentrations.

- 3) You also may view DNR's county-by-county daily air quality reports at the following site:
<http://dnrmaps.wi.gov/imf/imf.jsp?site=wisards>