HISTORY OF DANE COUNTY

Meeting in 1836, members of the first Wisconsin territorial legislature selected Madison as the capital. The city was named for the recently deceased fourth U. S. President, James Madison. A large county for which Madison served as the county seat was established on paper and named for Congressman Nathan Dane of Massachusetts of the old Continental Congress under the Confederation. Dane was responsible for the Northwest Ordinance of 1787 establishing governmental institutions and forever forbidding slavery to exist in the territory.

County government was established in 1839 with the election of a three-member board of commissioners. Wisconsin settlers brought two forms of local government with them. Those who settled the lead mining region were southerners and brought the tradition of strong counties going back to the Virginia roots of this form, usually with small governing bodies. Yankees who came from New England and upstate New York brought strong town governments. For a while Wisconsin struggled with how to blend these two traditions. In 1857 a larger Board of Supervisors was established for counties. After a brief relapse during the Civil War to a small body, in 1870 the final version was for a large board of Supervisors with each town and other incorporated municipalities represented. With a large geographical area Dane had many townships to include and thus became and has remained one of the largest member county boards in the state.

Population growth was important for the new county since the census of 1840 showed only 314 settlers though that increased in one decade to 16,639. By 1900 there were 70,000 persons and the 2010 census showed nearly half a million residents. Many streams of immigration, particularly German and Norwegian farmers, contributed to this growth. The township of Mazomanie was settled by a temperance society from England.

Agricultural production was and still is an important part of the county's economy. Many farmers came to Madison to attend short courses in scientific agriculture, as the University of Wisconsin was the state's land grant college. The World Dairy Expo today remains a testimony to this knowledge-based agriculture economy.

Many places in the county became part of the industrial growth of the 19th Century through the manufacturing and distribution of agricultural implements with firms like Fuller and Johnson in Madison and the Mandt works in Stoughton. Of course even though part of the county was founded by a temperance society, local breweries were important prior to prohibition.

Dane County's real growth occurs after World War II as state government institutions expand to provide services to returning veterans and to a growing manufacturing state which shared in the automobile boom. The veterans also went to college sparking growth at the University of Wisconsin. Today the University of Wisconsin Madison is one of the nation's top research campuses, annually bringing in over $1 billion in research dollars. County government in Wisconsin is delegated by the state to provide many services for citizens. Rapid growth and development in later part of the 20th Century caused a concomitant growing concern for the environment of the region. While Dane County government faces new challenges in the 21st Century, its thirty-seven member Board of Supervisors, as well as the Constitutional officers, continue the strong representative governing heritage of Dane County.
